WHOLE PACKAGE PRICE DROPS!

El Movimiento Estudiantil Chicano de Aztlán (MEChA) at UNM, with the assistance of Chicana and Chicano faculty, administration and staff, have been able to drop the total cost of the 13th Annual NCSC, to be held April 10-12, to just twenty-five dollars, due to successful fundraising. The new fee covers all the workshops, the reception, a luncheon, and a banquet dinner and bailé.

The reception will have entertainment provided by Pat Trujillo and Andres Valdes, doing "Yo Soy Joaquin," and an Albuquerque rap group, Disciples of Aztlán. Then all the campuses represented will be announced and the conference will be blessed by Cynthia Gomez.

The first of the main speakers will be Dr. Rodolfo Acuña of Cal State University Northridge. Acuña has been involved in controversy surrounding his application for director of Chicano Studies at UC Santa Barbara. Some of the Anglos involved in denying Acuña his position stated that he was just a "cult professor." Acuña will tie in his experiences with the theme, "Celebrating 500 Years of Resistance."

During the luncheon, on Saturday, Dr. Deena Gonzáles, visiting professor at UNM, will speak on Chicanas and Chicano Studies. Dr. Gonzales is visiting from Pomona College, in California, and is in a dual appointment with the History and Women Studies.

The speaker for the banquet will be Rudy Anaya, author of Bless Me Ultima, Tortuga and many other works. Anaya also co-edited a book called Aztlán.

Sunday morning there will be a presentation by the National Chicano Human Rights Council and el Partido Nacional de La Raza Unida. The presentations will focus on the international work of the organizations and the upcoming celebration of the quincentennial.

One of the other events at the conference will be a special performance by the Chicano Secret Service, a Chicano comedy group.

The Bailé will feature music by local groups Red Wine and Las Amigas. Both groups have recorded albums and are well recognized across New Mexico.

There will also be a presentation by Teatro Aztlán from Northridge California. The Northridge MEChA will also do a workshop on El Plan de Santa Bárbara and El Plan Espiritual de Aztlán.

Many of the workshops to be presented are from national organizations such as the Chicano Moratorium Committee, the National Coalition Against English Only, the Chicano Press Association, and MEChA.

The workshops will range in topics from a Project 1000 GRE workshop to 500 Years of Raza Resistance. For a more complete list of workshops see page 3.

There will be a workshop in Spanish, by Andres Segura of México and a bilingual workshop on language rights.

As of March 13th there were 259 people registered. Many of these were from Oregon, Washington, and Colorado. The school with the most registrations will be recognized at the conference. The school which traveled the furthest will also be acknowledged.

Due to the new price of registration, there will only be one hundred and fifty breakfasts being covered by the conference. The breakfast will run on a first-come, first-served basis.

Events that will occur throughout the conference will be an art exhibit, the banner display, and informational tables.

The conference will end in a business meeting that will hopefully set committees and pass resolutions for continued unity throughout the year. Also, the bidding for the 14th Annual NCSC will occur at this time.
